Shopkeepers, shoppers and local people have complained to the police. The police are responding with a zero-tolerance approach to vagrancy. The Vagrancy Act 1824 still applies and makes it a criminal offence to 'sleep rough'. The town holds a one-day music festival and, due to it finishing late, many of the festival goers miss the last transport home and end up sleeping in the station in the town. (a) Explain why some laws such as the Vagrancy Act 1824 have not been subject to change. [4] (b) Explain how Marxist theory would account for the issue of a zero-tolerance approach to issues such as 'sleeping rough'. [6] (c) Discuss how biological theories explain the causes of criminal behaviour. [7] (d) Discuss how relevant sociological theories account for people having to 'sleep rough'. This could include, for example, penal populism, zero tolerance, CCTV, restorative justice, multi-agency approach.	Edna and Sidney are neighbours. Edna is obsessed with cats and has 40 of them in her house. She has lived in poverty for many years. Sidney is a wealthy, elderly punk rocker who always dresses in punk rocker clothes and styles his hair in a spiked multi-coloured mohawk. He also regularly illegally downloads music and plays it at high volume late at night. Edna and Sidney intensely dislike each other and regularly argue. Edna complains about the music and Sidney calls Edna ‘a crazy old woman’. Many of their neighbours shout abuse at Edna saying she is mad and needs locking up. Edna has never complained to the police about this. One night she found graffiti on her door saying ‘mad woman’. When she heard Sidney’s music she went to his house armed with a kitchen knife, and stabbed him in the heart. He died shortly after the attack. (a)(i) Describe what is meant by the term ‘deviance’. [3]  (ii) Using examples from the scenario, explain behaviour that could be described as criminal, deviant, or both. [5]  (b) Explain how fear may have prevented Edna from reporting the name calling and the loud music to the police. [2]  (c)(i) Describe one sociological theory of criminality. [4]  (ii) Analyse how the theory described above can be applied to Edna’s situation. [5]  (iii) Evaluate the effectiveness of the sociological theory described on page 3 in explaining causes of criminality. [6] TFP	Research and explain the idea of the Panopticon
