Course Testaments

“My favourite area of study was Criminal Law and learning how to apply law to certain crimes and cases. Through learning how to analyse the cases it opened up many options as to what outcome to give. The course can be intense at times, however I thoroughly enjoyed it. I also enjoyed learning about the aspects of Family Law and developed an understanding as to how certain situations affect children and how the law supports families.

The course is currently helping me with my university course (Criminology Policing and Investigations), as the style and type of assessments at university will be similar to the Law assessments. If you are considering this course, I would totally recommend it as it opens up so many career choices for your futures.

“I really enjoyed law at A-level, especially the criminal side of it as it was interesting. I liked looking into different cases and then later applying knowledge to scenarios. I also liked how parts of the course were independent such as the course work but we were also guided on how to complete it well.
